A Jailbird

By THOMAS R. DEAN

"For heaven's sake, Mary!"

The exclamation was made by Ben Hutton, the prison warden, at receiving a woman of twenty-five as a prisoner.

Some years before Hutton had lived in the same town with Mary Arthur. He had loved her, but she had refused him for Tim Burt, a man higher in the social scale than Hutton and with some means.

The woman saw a look of anguish on the warden's face, but there were others looking on at the melancholy scene, and she made no reply. She gave a start at being recognized, then, nerved herself to maintain a certain rigidity which had thus far characterized her outward appearance. And Hutton, quickly throwing off expression of his feelings, proceeded to act the part of jailer to the woman he had once and still loved.

When they were alone together Hutton said:

"Now, tell me what this means."

"If I do I will not alone possess the secret."

"You know that it will be as safe with me as with you."

"I do, but I know that if I tell you you will not be able to refrain from giving the information that will free me."

"I promise to be guided by you alone."

She told him that her husband was a forger. He was a consumptive and had but a brief period to live. She herself was much better able to bear incarceration than he. To save him she had confessed to having committed the crime with which he had been charged.

After the recital of the failure Mary Arthur had made in the choice of a life companion both remained silent, she, buoyed by the sacrifice she was making, he with head bowed at being placed in the position of her jailer.

"I must leave here," he said presently. "Flesh and blood will not stand such a strain."

She made no reply. Then it occurred to him that the strain she had voluntarily taken upon herself was far harder to bear than that which had fallen to him.

"No," he cried; "that would be cowardly. I must remain here to make your burden as light as possible." Then, summoning all his resolution, he led her to her cell and locked her in.

Mary Burt, having by her confession and by pleading guilty to the crime of which she had been accused, had received a comparatively light sentence, which, with good behavior, would free her in four years. Six months after she entered the prison her husband died.

Singularly enough, the position existing between these two gradually changed from the dreadful one it seemed to be when they met at the prison portal to one of exquisite happiness.

DESERTING T. R. SUPPORT TAFT

Hears Borah, Deneen and Hadley Will Quit Colonel

ROOSEVELT A TRAILER

Progressive Senators to Hold Conference—Some of Them Favor Going Along with Taft So as to Get Progressive Legislation.

Washington, July 1.—Col. Roosevelt's third party movement has made no progress if the reports which have reached President Taft in the last few days indicate anything. The president has received word from several sources that the new party movement has fallen flat in many sections of the country and that many of the men who supported Col. Roosevelt at Chicago will support the president in the coming campaign.

Word has been received at the White House that Govs. Deneen of Illinois and Hadley of Missouri will support the regular Republican ticket this fall. Word has been received also that Senator Borah, one of Col. Roosevelt's chief leaders at Chicago, will support the president.

President Taft learned Saturday that the published interview with Sheriff Law of Brooklyn, to the effect that the latter will support President Taft was correct.

A report that National Committeeman Ward of New York will also support the president has been received at the White House.

President Taft and his advisers are claiming that before the campaign gets fully under way the defections from Roosevelt will be large, and that when the campaign reaches its crisis, Roosevelt will be a bad, trailing third candidate.

The progressive Senators in Washington are soon to have a conference to determine their course in the coming campaign. They are waiting to hear the sentiment of their constituents. Some of them favor trying to support Roosevelt, while others favor supporting President Taft, with the hope of getting something definite in the way of progressive legislation with a new Congress.

The following was among the telegrams received at the White House Saturday:

Johnson City, Tenn., June 28. The President, Washington, D. C.:

First senatorial district convention rejected resolutions to-day endorsing Roosevelt by a vote of 48½ to 3½. You were endorsed by the same vote.

Sam R. Sells.

McHARG QUILTS COL. ROOSEVELT

Says the Colonel Would Have Won if He Had Fired Emotional Friends at Chicago.

New York, July 1.—Ormsby McHarg said Saturday that he had quit Col. Roosevelt's third party movement because "business which is personal and far more important makes the step imperative."

"I shall support Col. Roosevelt in this state," he said, "if I may do so through duly qualified electors. Taft got the nomination at Chicago, and if Col. Roosevelt is not regularly nominated by a third-party convention, I shall vote as a Republican, for Taft. I am in some important business deals, and I shall stay out of politics."

"Col. Roosevelt has surrounded himself by a lot of emotional people, who swamped the true movement he represented. His great personal strength saved him a break in Chicago at the last moment, but it was a failure, indeed, to have had some of the men about him that he had. If he had fired about 50 of the men he had around him in the last hours, he would have won everything in sight. His friends have talked too much and hurt him."

"Bryan has sent word that he will not come in with Roosevelt, no matter how it goes at Baltimore. Wilson is Roosevelt's only danger. If Col. Roosevelt will put his hand into the hands of some level-headed, cold-blooded, calculating manager, like George Perkins, who will work without sentiment, he will win the country. If he tries emotionalism, he will lose everything he tries."

DEMOCRATS DELAY COLONEL.

The Formation of New Party Postponed Pending Baltimore Developments.

New York, July 1.—"It's just a game of push-in-the-corner," said Col. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay Saturday night, when he had heard of the day's happenings in Baltimore. The colonel had been picking all day and did not know what had been going on until he returned. When he was told that William J. Bryan had declared he would not be a party to the nomination of a candidate supported by Charles F. Murphy, he laughed heartily. "It is very funny," he said. "But of course," he continued, "it is preposterous to think of a convention in which Bryan and Ryan are in good

Brother's Neckties

Brother Will had a number of nice silk ties that were not worn out, but he was tired of wearing them, so one afternoon I got some Dyo-la from the druggist and had a lot of fun dyeing those neckties different colors. Billie was very much pleased with the result. Dyo-la costs only 10c at drug stores and comes in 16 different colors, from which you can make all kinds of combinations for dyeing all kinds of goods, silk, cotton, woolen, mixed goods all the same.

standing. Has anybody got any idea what the convention is going to do?"

Plans for the formation of the new party are still being held up to await developments at Baltimore. "I expected to be able to say something definite day or two ago," said the colonel, "but the Baltimore convention is hanging on so that we have been delayed."

A report that Ormsby McHarg of New York, who managed Col. Roosevelt's recent campaign in some of the southern states, had decided to join the new party will participate in the parade Col. Roosevelt said that he had heard nothing of it. William L. Ward of Westchester, he said, had written him a "nice letter," explaining why he did not wish to leave the Republican party. "There are a good many men who will take the same view," he said, "but for every man who leaves us we will get 10 others who were not with us before."

BEVERLY TO GREET TAFT.

Big Reception Planned for July 4 at Summer Capital.

Boston, July 1.—From the decks of the Dolphin, the Secretary of the navy's yacht, moored in Beverly harbor, the guns will boom a presidential salute when President Taft arrives in Beverly on the Fourth of July morning for what promises to be a short visit to the summer capital.

Secretary Meyer, who is at Hamilton, has ordered the Dolphin to come to Beverly that day, and a detachment of blue-jackets will participate in the parade to Farramatta, the summer White House at Montserrat, arranged in honor of the coming of the president.

The president will make his trip to Beverly in a special train, and instead of stopping at Montserrat will alight at Beverly. The depot square will be roped off, and he will be received by a committee from the Taft club, the Republican city committee, the Republican club, summer residents and other organizations. There will be plenty of music and a parade. The president will be in Beverly until Monday, when he will return to Washington.

CALLS COLONEL "FAKIR."

Former Mayor of Milwaukee Attacks Roosevelt's Trust Record.

Milwaukee, July 1.—Emil Seidel, former Socialist mayor of Milwaukee and candidate for vice-president on the national Social Democratic ticket, in an address at Appleton, Wis., Friday night attacked Theodore Roosevelt, calling him a "fakir." He compared the colonel with Lot and his family when they were driven out of the city of Sodom and Lot's wife turned back and was turned into a pillar of salt. "Just so it is with 'Teddy,' who says he will smash this great problem that confronts the people today, the trusts. He goes only so far and then turns back to favor them," said Mr. Seidel.

GIRL REFUSES MAN SHE CALLS A "CRYBABY."

Fiance Wept at His Mother's Opposition and "Settled" Bride-to-Be.

New York, June 29.—Guests were assembled and all was in readiness Thursday morning for the wedding of Dennis Leonard and Miss Ida O'Shea in St. Jerome's Roman Catholic church, One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street and Alexander avenue.

The bride and bridegroom did not appear and the guests began wondering. Then a man slipped through the church and said in a whisper:

"There'll be no wedding here to-day. The affair is off."

"And I broke it off, too," said Miss O'Shea, who is 24 and lives with her sister, Mrs. James Cunningham, at 457 East One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street.

"Why did I break it off? Why, because I decided I wouldn't marry a crybaby. That's why."

"Wednesday night Mr. Leonard called on me and began crying. He said he was crying because his mother was opposed to the marriage. That settled me right then and there."

SWAN SONG OF TARIFF BOARD

Body, About to Go Out of Existence, Makes Its Last Report to Taft

—Leather and Sugar Facts.

Washington, July 1.—The tariff board went out of existence Saturday because Congress has refused further money for its work.

The five members, headed by Chairman Henry C. Emery, met at the White House and informed the president of the board's recent work, consisting of a cursory examination of the leather industry, the cost of sugar growing in Louisiana and glossaries of the leather and silk schedules. This uncompleted data was turned over to the president for the use of committees of Congress or any other tariff revision agency.

The board was formed in October, 1909. It has made comprehensive investigations of the difference in costs at home and abroad of wool pulp and paper, wool and cotton and also compiled glossaries of numerous schedules. These reports are in the hands of Congress.

WOMEN WILL ABIDE BY VOTE

Mrs. Pennybacker and Mrs. Carpenter, Rivals

PLEDGE SUPPORT TO WINNER

Speak to the Federation—$8,500 Raised at the Meeting Toward the Endowment of $100,000.

San Francisco, July 1.—The two leading candidates for the presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Percy Pennybacker of Texas and Mrs. Philip Carpenter of New York, stood on the same platform Saturday, each pledging loyalty and allegiance to the other, whichever should be elected.

The subject of endowment had brought them before the convention.

Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker of Colorado, a former president, and Mrs. Philip North Moore of St. Louis, the retiring president, also are to be candidates for re-election.

Mrs. Decker made a plea for the proposed endowment fund of $100,000, and Mrs. Emmons Crocker of Boston moved that the endowment be completed on the spot. The motion was seconded and declared approved by the chair, against some murmurs of "No," "No."

All pledges will apply to cancellation of the endowment assessments levied against each state. It was announced when adjournment was taken that $8,500 had been raised, but that the polls were not closed.

The largest individual contribution was $1,500 from New York clubs and the New York state federation.

Miss Helen Varick Boswell of New York, organizer of the canal zone federation; Mrs. W. E. Miller of South Bend, Ind.; Miss Mary Wood of New York, vice-chairman of the field committee on endowment, and Mrs. Frederick Nathan, vice-president of the National Consumers' league, spoke.

INDIAN GIRL DRIVEN FROM HOME AS A WITCH

Pretty Lola Razon, Who Wants to Be a Teacher, Tried Magic at an Entertainment.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., July 1.—Great has been the excitement in the little Indian village of St. Regis, near here, where the people have been living in dread of Lola Razon, a native girl of 15, who is believed to possess an evil eye.

The Indians believe that Lola is a black witch and that wherever she appears children get sick, dogs go mad, animals die, and people's lives are made miserable. Medicine men have been unable to drive out the evil spirit.

The squaws told their children to avoid the witch girl, and warnings were given not to let her shadow fall on any member of the tribe, nor their live stock.

The chiefs finally decided that the girl must leave the tribe at once, and she has gone to Luzerne mountain, where she has an uncle.

Lola is described as a bright, pretty girl, who cherishes the ambition of becoming a teacher of her tribe. It is believed that a few clever tricks performed by her at a school entertainment aroused feelings against her which ended in her being banished.

DR. CAPSEY ARRESTED.

Policeman Thought He Was Acting in Suspicious Manner.

Dunkirk, N. Y., July 1.—Rev. Algernon S. Capsey of Rochester, the defendant in a few years ago in one of the most celebrated recent trials for heresy, and who was subsequently unfrocked by the Protestant Episcopal church, was arrested at Dunkirk, N. Y., early Saturday by a uniformed patrolman in the business section, who thought Dr. Capsey was acting in a suspicious manner.

The policeman said Dr. Capsey told him to mind his own business when he asked him to go to his headquarters. Dr. Capsey identified himself, explaining that he had been loitering on the street to kill time while waiting for a train and, after defying the police to put him in a cell, was allowed to go. Later he took a train for the East. He had been lecturing on Socialism the evening before at Fredonia, N. Y.

JUSTICE HANFORD'S HABITS PROBED

House Sub-Committee Hear Witnesses Who Thought the Judge Intoxicated.

Seattle, Wash., July 1.—United States Justice Cornelius Hanford's personal habits were inquired into Saturday by the House judiciary sub-committee. Two witnesses testified they had seen the justice apparently under the influence of liquor.

Examination of the facts in the case of Leonard Olsson, whose naturalization papers were revoked after a hearing before Judge Hanford, closed Saturday and the committee adjourned until to-day.

The five members, headed by Chairman Henry C. Emery, met at the White House and informed the president of the board's recent work, consisting of a cursory examination of the leather industry, the cost of sugar growing in Louisiana and glossaries of the leather and silk schedules. ## TOPICS OF THE HOME AND HOUSEHOLD.

Borax water will restore the gloss to sateen in washing.

Hot milk will take fruit stains out of white clothes better and quicker than hot water.

Pumpkin seeds are very attractive to mice, and traps baited with them will soon destroy the little pests.

Use half a canned peach or apricot in the bottom of a glass of plain ice cream and garnish with whipped cream.

Graham Bread—If one cup of chopped walnuts is added to each loaf of graham bread the flavor is improved immensely.

Keep some folded newspapers handy upon which to place soiled pots and pans, and save cleaning smutty rings from the tables.

Hot lemonade is one of the best remedies in the world for a cold. It acts promptly and effectively and has no unpleasant after-effects.

For rheumatism pains, take a half teaspoon of common salt for nine mornings, in half a glass of clear cold water and your rheumatism pains will be relieved.

When making caramel, chocolate or mocha frosting that is a cooked frosting—add just a little butter, the frosting cuts better and keeps moist longer if this is done.

A Great Time Saver—Instead of stitching up the fourth side of cushion covers, saw on a few patent fasteners. This will save time, trouble and the wear and tear of the cover.

If you have cream you want to keep sweet a few days, add two or three lumps of sugar, stirring it well, then cover it and set it away in the coldest corner of the refrigerator.

Lace should never be rubbed. Put your curtains into cold water overnight. Then put them into clean cold water with borax. Bring slowly to a boil, and boil 15 or 20 minutes. Rinse thoroughly in several waters, and into the final water put five cents' worth of gum arabic. They will have the stiffness of new curtains.

The small articles that are washed at home may be most daintily perfumed if a small piece of orris root is added to the water they are boiled in. It may seem an undertaking to boil these, but if the handkerchiefs are placed in an enameled saucepan sufficiently large to hold them and the water necessary, they can be boiled quite well over a spirit lamp or paraffine stove. They need only be boiled for ten minutes. If, however, the articles are tinted and cannot be treated in this way, boil a small piece of orris root in the water and use it for rinsing the Mousers, handkerchiefs, etc. When dry they will be most daintily perfumed with a faint odor of violets.

DELICIOUS STRAWBERRY RECIPES.

Strawberries Served Whole.—The berries may be served unhusked, in which case they are dipped into sugar and eaten with the fingers, place them in the heart of a lettuce or other bed of green. If husked, the strawberries should be washed before the hulls are picked from them and sugar put upon the table. Some people add a cup of orange or pineapple juice to the berries, but that spoils strawberries for many people.

Strawberry Salad—Pick out five large strawberries and serve on a lettuce leaf with French dressing made as follows: Four tablespoons of oil, one tablespoon of vinegar, half a teaspoonful of salt and a quarter of a teaspoonful of paprika.

Strawberry Pudding—A plain steamed pudding, using the shortcake recipe, served with a sauce of mashed strawberries and whipped cream will please everyone who tastes it.

Sunshine Strawberries—Weigh your strawberries and for each pound add 1 pound of granulated cane sugar. Stir very carefully so that each berry will remain whole. Let them stand 12 hours, then pick out strawberries from juice and place on platters, being careful not to put one berry over another. Put the juice in a wide top bowl and place both in the sun for 12 hours. Then put berries in jelly glasses and turn over juice and put glasses in direct sun rays for 12 hours. If made carefully this confection is finer than the famous bar-le-duc and it is more delectable to serve with cream cheese and wafers than the French delicacy. Cane sugar must be used for this recipe.

Strawberry Sponge—One quart of berries, a half a box of gelatine, one and one-half cups of water, one and one-half cups of sugar, juice of one lemon, and the beaten whites of four eggs. Soak gelatine in half cup of the water; mash berries with half the sugar; boil the remainder of sugar and water slowly five minutes. Rub the berries through a hair sieve, add the gelatine to the boiling syrup; take from the fire and add the berries. Place the bowl in a pan of ice water and beat with the egg beater five minutes; lastly add the beaten whites and stir the whole mixture until it begins to thicken. Pour in the wet moulds and set on ice.

Strawberry Pulp—Mash two quarts of strawberries to a pulp. Pour over them three quarts of water and the juice of two lemons. Stand in a cool place for four hours. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Strain again and set in a cool place until wanted. Serve in tumblers of crushed ice.

Strawberry Cocktail—This is a delightful appetizer to be served at luncheon. To a cup of mashed strawberries add a slice of pineapple, a tablespoonful of orange juice, half a cup of sugar, a sprig of mint, and plenty of cracked ice. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Strawberry Pie—Make a pie crust of flour mixed with a quarter of a teaspoon of baking powder, half a cup of butter, and a pinch of salt. Mix by cutting butter carefully into the flour with a silver knife, add enough water to roll out a dry crust. Place in a pie dish and bake in a quick oven. Just before serving, fill crust with strawberries that have been standing sweetened for about an hour, and top with a meringue made of the whites of two eggs and a heaping tablespoonful of powdered sugar beaten to a stiff froth. Place in oven until meringue is delicately browned.

Strawberry and Pineapple Conserve—To 1 quart of strawberries use one pint of pineapple cut in portions about the size of an ordinary strawberry. Weigh the fruit and use the same amount of granulated sugar and let stand one-half hour. Put enough of the fruit and sugar to make two glasses full of conserve, boil 15 minutes. The secret of success with this conserve is in boiling only a little at a time, otherwise the fruit gets "mushy" and the juice becomes a jam instead of jelly.

Strawberry Tapioca—Wash one cup of minute tapioca through several waters and soak two hours. Then put over the fire with one pint boiling water, and simmer gently until the tapioca is perfectly clear. Stir the berries, a quart of them, into the boiling tapioca, and sweeten to taste. Take from the fire, turn into the dish in which they are to be served, and set away to cool. Serve cold with sugar and cream.

Strawberry Dope—Into one quart of milk sweetened with one-half a cupful of sugar stir one cup of well-washed rice, add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and bake in slow oven three hours. When cold serve with crushed strawberries made very sweet.

Why Fib to Babies? When a baby tumbles down and bumps his head or his little nose, there are almost as many ways of dealing with this familiar catastrophe as there are different kinds of mothers. For instance, there is the mother who tries to distract the baby's attention, and the mother who attempts to instill courage by telling baby that he is a brave little boy, and how glad mother is that he isn't going to cry. All of these methods have their advantages. But there is one method of dealing with such happenings in which I can see no advantages and a great disadvantage. And that is the habit of blaming someone or something for the mishap which is possibly baby's misfortune, and possibly baby's fault. "Naughty floor," says the mother who adopts this policy. "Baby spank naughty floor for hitting baby's head." And forthwith she slaps the floor and urges the baby to do the same. Or if baby jumps about in big sister's arms and loses his balance, the resulting tumble is blamed, in baby's presence, to big sister for letting baby fall.

Now perhaps you think I am making a good deal of fuss over a very little thing. Well, maybe it is a little thing in itself, but there is a very big principle behind it. The tendency to blame someone or something for the unpleasant happening which is really our own fault or just our misfortune, is strong enough in all of us. It doesn't need any encouraging. And the mother who teaches the baby to say "naughty floor" on "naughty sister" is encouraging this tendency.

A certain vigorous little baby who has just arrived at the "spunky" age, has acquired a trick of throwing herself back on the floor, or in her mother's arms, or wherever she happens to be, when she doesn't like anything. At first her mother was constantly on guard to save baby from the results of her own temper, but she soon decided that, when she knew the baby could not do herself any serious harm, she held back from interfering and deliberately allowed the child to bump or strike herself. Nor did she then say "naughty floor" or "naughty chair." On the contrary, she told the baby that that was what happened to babies when they were naughty and flung themselves about. Needless to say, baby soon learned her lesson.

The mother who says "naughty floor" is the mother who a few years later tells how the little boy next door got her Johnnie into mischief, or how the little girl across the street led her little girl into a scrape.

The tendency to blame all our failures and troubles on other people, or on uncontrollable conditions, is one of the deadliest enemies to success. The only way to grow and achieve is to build on our failures and mishaps, and how can we do that if we won't acknowledge them? The sooner a child learns the lesson of his own responsibility for things that go wrong, the better. And remember, the baby who is old enough to comprehend "naughty floor" is also old enough to understand "careless baby."—Exchange.

Something New in Education.

Educators hail with interest the appearance of the book just published, "The Montessori Method," by Dr. Maria Montessori, the noted Italian educator. The work of Dr. Montessori is remarkable in that it is the only example of an educational system worked out and inaugurated by the constructive effort of a woman. The system deals with the education of young children. It embodies the most adaptable features proposed in the theories of Pestalozzi and Froebel and applied by Seguin, Dr. Fernald of Massachusetts and others. Dr. Montessori is the first educator to produce a system of education that combines
